

The FCC should not use June 1, 2003 as the deadline. The process should be opened up to more debate and discourse. There should be more public comment incorporated into any considerations being made.

More deregulation of the media is bad for local communities and will have the effect that opening a Walmart has on small business in a community.